

DNS

Basic setup: run our own DNS server. since it's basically required to run 2, run the master authoritative dns server in the homelab, and have a "slave" on the VPS that's constantly kept in sync.

Note: since we want to use these DNS servers for ALL our domains, we need at least one domain registered with a company that supports "glue records".

The homelab server might go down if the IP changes (static is expensive), but since we have 2 anyway things should keep working just fine until i adjust it.
